

Let's make it clear:
people travel
because they have no hobbies
back home.

They're not busy
enough and
desperately want
to find meaning in
their empty
little lives.

You have a mortgage
unpaid, the car and
phone are still on
credit, and yet
you're dropping 2000 $ on
your next
trip to Iceland to see
waterfalls.

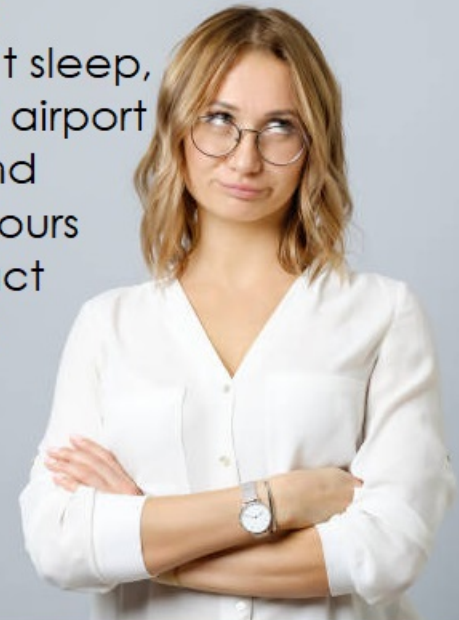

That's
fucking
pathetic!

You brag about
"experiencing cultures"
but you spend 90 % of the trip in Starbucks,
tourist busses
and hotel bars
surrounded by the
same white tourists
as you.

Groundbreaking!

You fly 12 hours
economy, can't sleep,
eat overpriced airport
slop, just to stand
in line for two hours
to take the exact
same photo as 8 million other
people.
And you
call that traveling.

Just so you know, you're a weirdo to the locals in any country you travel to. People are busy with their actual lives while you, idiot, walk around
with your iPhone
taking pics of shiny
and colorful things
like a toddler.
It's ridiculous.

You come back
"changed," talk like
a wise guru for
exactly four days,
then go back to
your dead-
end job and Netflix.

What a transformation!

I've been to 25 countries.
Picking a favorite feels impossible, but there are 3 I'd gladly return to again and again.

Hannah Kennedy

There's so
much to see
and do
in Egypt

Germany is a
great country
to visit any
time of year

Task 1: Write True (T) or False (F) for each one.

- 1. Hannah always dreamed of being a traveler, even when she was a child. (T/F)
- 2. Hannah's first experience living abroad was when she moved to Ireland at the age of 16. (T/F)
- 3. She has visited every continent except for Antarctica. (T/F)
- 4. When Hannah first visited Egypt, she realized that a one-week trip was enough time to see everything important. (T/F)
- 5. Hannah's first trip to Germany was to visit a friend who lived in Berlin. (T/F)

Task 2: Answer the following questions.

- 1. What three activities does Hannah recommend doing in Ireland to get a taste of true Irish culture?
- 2. What is koshari, and why does Hannah love it?
- 3. What two specific aspects of Berlin did Hannah enjoy?
- 4. What made Hannah's trip to Neuschwanstein Castle feel like a scene from a movie?

"Living abroad opened my eyes to the world,
and I was bitten by the travel bug."

Task 3: Choose the best answer for each question.

- 1. What is the main reason Hannah found her initial move to Ireland so important for her future travels?
a) Her dad's job made her wealthy enough to travel. b) It forced her to overcome her shyness immediately. c) It exposed her to the world and created a desire to travel.
- 2. When Hannah says, "I've barely scratched the surface of everything there is to see," she means:
a) She only saw the desert and nothing else. b) She feels she needs many more trips to explore the country fully. c) The country is not very well-known to tourists.
- 3. Why does Hannah give Berlin "major bonus points"?
a) Because it has the best public transportation system. b) Because she was able to find many suitable vegetarian food options there. c) Because the history is more interesting than the art scene.

Task 4: Fill in the Blank

breathtaking landscapes | efficient | second thought | scratched the surface | enchanting

- 1. The castles in Germany were so beautiful, the atmosphere was absolutely ____.
- 2. Germany has an ____ public transportation system, making it easy to travel around.
- 3. Hannah will go back to Ireland without a ____, meaning she doesn't need to think much.
- 4. From the friendly people to the ____, Ireland is a magical place to visit.
- 5. Even after two trips to Egypt, Hannah feels she has barely ____ of what it has to offer.

Complete the questions using Present Perfect then listen to check and answer the questions:

- 1. Which countries (you/visit) most recently?
- 2. What is the most unusual dish (you/ever/eat) on your travels?
- 3. (you/ever/face) a language barrier that was impossible to overcome?
- 4. (your/change) desire to visit Ireland __ since you moved away?
- 5. Which of your recommended destinations (you/return) to the most times?
- 6. (you/be) to a place that felt completely different from what you expected?
- 7. What is the most valuable lesson (you/learn) from living abroad?
- 8. What is the most breathtaking sight (you/capture) in a photo?

"I'm Hannah Kennedy
and I've been to 25
countries at 23 years
old, and my desire to travel has only grown."

What tense are the
bolded words, and why
does she use this tense?
What is the grammar
structure?

