March 2023

June 2026

The viral "Will Smith eating spaghetti" AI video was first posted in March 2023 by Reddit user u/chaindrop and later shared on YouTube. The description notes that "all images and video were generated using Stable Diffusion."

It spread fast because the result looked bizarre and uncanny, so people reacted with a mix of shock, jokes, and discomfort. The comments like "What the actual fuck!?", "Welp that was terrifying," and "I want more," while later reporting noted that the clip became a benchmark for measuring how realistic AI video had become.

- bizarre — very strange or unusual.
- uncanny — strangely familiar, and a little frightening.
- benchmark — a standard used to compare quality or success.

- Have you seen the original 2023 video?
- Compare the 2026 remake with the original and say what you think of the progress so far.

Zombie Scavenger is an AI-generated short film created by Mx-Shell. It's a post-apocalyptic story about a lone scavenger in a zombie world, and some sources say it was produced with Seedance 2.0. It was made in about 10 days on a budget of around $440!

Watch the short film and put these 6 sentences in the correct chronological order:

- He rides through a ruined world full of zombies.
- He finds a strange mannequin in an empty place.
- He tries to survive by collecting useful things.
- He notices danger all around him.
- He meets "a woman" and starts a connection with her.
- He keeps moving through the broken city.

- Who was the main character, and what did he want?
- Is the film more funny, scary, or sad?
- Would you watch a longer version? Why or why not?
- Can AI storytelling be emotional?
- Give the film a star rating and explain it.

@KingBuster90

I could definitely watch a movie or TV series of this, even a game, I needed more

@Chazzi_Allstar

Holy Sh*t!!! I have no words. AI is really our future...for shure

@ปภาภรณ์-ชวณ

Is AI really capable of this kind of work...? All those who studied graphic design will be out of a job...!

@Luckystone68

I feel sorry for the ostrich, they didn't take it back to the spaceship. ❤️

@michaeldavis1534

Great work -amazing character and set consistency! Funny

Whats good about this? Isnt this just AI slop stitched together?

What Makes a Great Movie So Great?

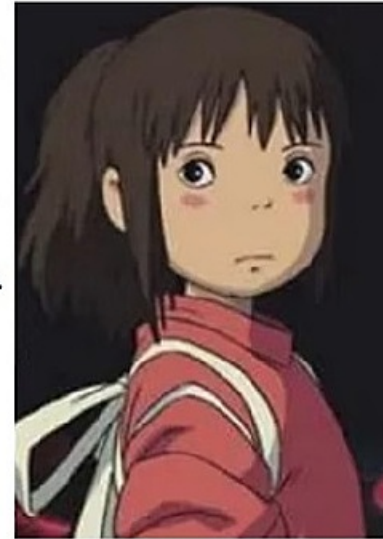

A really good movie is like magic. It pulls us into its world and makes us laugh, cry, and think about important things in life. But what exactly turns a normal film into an exceptional cinematic experience? Let's look at the main ingredients that make a movie truly great.

Storytelling Mastery: At the heart of every great movie is a strong and compelling story. A well-written story can take us to distant imaginary worlds, different times in history, or deep into the human mind. It keeps us interested from beginning to end, makes us feel strong emotions, and leaves us thinking long after the movie finishes.

Memorable Characters: Great movies introduce us to believable and fascinating characters. These characters feel like real people. We can have interesting complex personalities that are sometimes funny, sometimes sad, or even a bit dangerous. We root for the brave young hero, we fear the clever evil villain, and we celebrate when characters grow and change during the film.

Cinematic Visuals: Visuals are extremely important in films. Great movies use beautiful modern cinematography and stunning detailed sets to create spectacular imaginary worlds. From breathtaking green mountainous landscapes to elegant historical costumes, the visuals help us feel that we are really inside the story.

Captivating Soundtrack: Music plays a very important role in movies. A powerful dramatic soundtrack can make scenes much more emotional. Famous examples include John Williams' iconic heroic Star Wars theme and Hans Zimmer's dark intense music in Inception. Good movie music often stays in our heads for a long time.

Thought-Provoking Themes: Great movies are more than simple entertainment. They explore deep and meaningful topics such as love, justice, friendship, and morality. These films make us think about our own lives and can change the way we see the world.

Emotional Impact: The best movies create a strong emotional connection with the audience. They can make us laugh uncontrollably, bring tears to our eyes, or fill us with genuine deep admiration. When a movie touches our feelings, we remember it for many years.

- Do you agree with the text?
- What else do you think makes a movie great?

Adjective order is a very useful and common problem for students. When we use 2, 3, or 4 adjectives before a noun, they usually follow this order:

Order	Type	Example
1	Opinion	beautiful, amazing, boring, great
2	Size	big, small, huge, long
3	Age	old, new, young, modern
4	Shape	round, square, flat
5	Color	red, blue, dark, bright
6	Origin	American, Italian, French
7	Material	wooden, metal, silk
8	Purpose	cooking, sports, movie

Explain the highlighted examples from the text.
e.g. an exceptional (opinion) cinematic (purpose) experience (noun)

Look at these short movie descriptions and put the adjectives in the correct order.

1. The Matrix is an (iconic, action, futuristic) movie that explores deep questions about reality and freedom.
2. Fight Club is a (dark, psychological, intense) drama that examines modern masculinity and consumer society.
3. Casino Royale is a (stylish, brilliant, action-packed) spy film that reintroduces James Bond with fresh energy.
4. Pretty Woman is a (romantic, charming, comedy) story about love, class differences, and unexpected happiness.
5. Borat is a (outrageous, controversial, mockumentary) comedy that cleverly satirizes American culture.
6. Parasite is a (dark, brilliant, social) thriller that exposes class inequality and human greed.
7. Forrest Gump is a (heartwarming, comedy-drama, inspirational) film that follows an ordinary man's extraordinary life.
8. Interstellar is an (ambitious, epic, sci-fi) masterpiece that explores space travel, time, and family love.
9. Titanic is a (tragic, historical, romantic) drama that tells a powerful story of love and disaster.
10. Avatar is a (visually stunning, epic, sci-fi) adventure that explores nature, war, and cultural conflict.
